Annual Silver Skates Carnival Set for Jan. 30

Mansfield's leading "blades" spectacle—the annual News-Journal Silver Skates Ice Carnival—will be back for its second appearance Jan. 30 at North Lake park.

Augmenting the amateur speed skating show this year, officials have decided to add a Richland county high school division to the competition with the winner getting the News-Journal trophy.

Skaters from eight to 80 will be eligible to compete in the 30 events in nine age groups. There is no entry fee and the N-J will give miniature silver skates to the winners in each race. Ribbons will go to the first five placers.

In case of bad ice, the carnival will be postponed until Feb. 6. Last years, a blizzard caused the show to be moved back a week but the '48 Silver Skaters drew 85 contestants and 1,500 spectators.

Since very few Mansfielders have skated in speed meets, the field is wide open for novice entrants. Most of the 1948 winners were competing for the first time, although several had raced in the public school competition staged by Harry Mehock, physical education coordinator.

In conjunction with the announcement of the N-J racing, Mehock today scheduled the public school show for Jan. 22. Eliminations for the 20-event program are slated to begin Jan. 17.

The high school division will include four races for boys and three for girls. Points will be scored on a 6-4-3-2-1 basis in all the events and the school getting the highest total will win the trophy. For boys there will be a 100-yard dash, one-lap sprint, eight-lap relay and 75-yard roller skates dash. The girls' events are 100-yard dash, one-lap sprint and four-lap relay.

Contestants this year may compete in only two events with the high school "bladers" limited to one. However, many of the schools will schedule intra-mural meets to insure maximum participation.

Deadline for entries is Jan. 26 at midnight. The official entry blank will be found on the sports pages today.

Stan Kamen, city recreation chief, will again serve as Skates' director. Other officials are: Mehock, Frank Burton, parks superintendent; Augie Morningstar, Senior high athletic director; Ennis Walker, Madison physical education director; John Fike, YMCA physical director, and Fred Tharp, N-J sports editor.

WEATHER
Rainy, colder tonight; continued rain and colder Thursday.

Car Hits Tree, Taxi Driver Killed

Mishap Occurs In Rainstorm

Mansfielder Dies In Crestline

CRESTLINE — A 58-year-old Mansfield Veterans' cab driver was killed yesterday and a 29-year-old woman passenger in his car was injured when the car skidded on West Main street and struck a tree on a private lawn.

The victim was identified by Crestline Police Chief Paul T. Kindinger as Boyd Howard McClure of 138 East Fifth street, Mansfield. Chief Kindinger said McClure was hurled from the car onto the lawn at the Howard Foltz home.

McClure was pronounced dead on arrival at Crestline Emergency hospital. The accident, the chief said, occurred at 4:40 p. m.

Veterans' cab spokesmen said McClure was off duty at the time of the accident and he was driving his own car.

SUFFERS MINOR HURTS

Miss Cosma Long, 29, of 5 France street, Mansfield, a passenger in the car, was treated at the Crestline hospital for minor injuries of the hands and arms and was released.

McClure's death was the first in Crawford county this year and marked the first fatality within the Crestline city limits in more than a year.

Chief Kindinger said the accident occurred during a driving rain storm in the city.

McClure was born on Nov. 22, 1890 in Perrysville. He was single.

Survivors include four brothers, Ira, with whom the victim made his home; Charles of Girard; Chalmer of Texas; and Fred of Alliance.

Funeral services will be held at the Wappner funeral home at 1:30 p. m. Friday, in charge of Rev. Carveth P. Mitchell, pastor of the First Lutheran church. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Cites Wish To Give Up

DETROIT —(UP)— Police said today that Arthur Benner jr., wanted for the slaying of an Ohio policeman, will give himself up if his parents send him train fare to come home.

Benner, in a letter to his parents here, said he was tired of "living as a hunted man" and would be in Detroit in three days if his parents send the money.

Benner, a federal parolee on a stolen car count, is wanted in Fremont, O., for the Nov. 3 slaying of George Biggs, 24-year-old police rookie, who was killed while trying to prevent Benner from escaping.

His companion in the Avon Park crimes, William E. Scheckett, 21, was shot to death in Fremont as he tried to escape.

Johnson Blamed In Election Loss

COLUMBUS. — (AP) — Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel yesterday formally blamed republican state chairman Fred H Johnson for defeat of most Ohio republican candidates in the Nov. 2 election.

He said: "From my observation and information which I consider reliable, I have decided this great loss of republican candidates in the Nov. 2, 1948 election came about due to the lack of cooperation and team work on the part of Hon. Fred H. Johnson, chairman of the republican central and executive committees."

Elements Buffet Nation

(Compiled From Wire Services)

Colder weather was forecast for Ohio today as continuing heavy rains sent many streams out of their banks and closed at least 19 state routes.

Several families were evacuated from camp sites along the Little Miami river near Cincinnati as that stream and the Big Miami overflowed their banks. Thirty-four women and children were moved into a recreation center in Mariemont, a Cincinnati suburb, where the Red Cross set up headquarters.

The weather bureau said more rain would fall in Ohio tonight, adding to the already swollen rivers.

At Warren, Ark., freezing weather multiplied the suffering in the grief-stricken town as dazed residents began the long job of cleaning up after a tornado that killed at least 54 and left hundreds injured.

As if the howling, killing twister that tore up some 250 homes were not enough, the elements continued to plague this broken community.

Hail and heavy rains followed the hop-skip tornado Monday night. Thunderstorms and a heavy downpour kept up all day yesterday.

RELIEF PREDICTED

The winter season's worst blizzard abated over parts of the western plains, indicating some relief from the paralyzing effects of the three-day storm.

The Dakotas and western Nebraska still battled the storm. In Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas, Utah and Idaho the monumental job of digging out of the huge drifts was started.

But as the blizzard subsided, federal weather officials said the storm would blow out of the Dakotas and Nebraska within 24 hours.

Temperatures generally were above the zero mark over the snow and wind swept plains states. Forecasters said no severe cold blasts were in prospect immediately.

With relief in sight, the citrus belt of California and Arizona took stock after, the worst freeze in 35 years. Heavy damage to lemon and orange crops was feared. In Arizona, hit by the coldest weather in 12 years, picking of citrus fruits was banned until freeze damage is ascertained.

Arizona had more sub-freezing weather today.

The punishing blows from the raging storms across the plains states left many segments of business and industry staggering. Thousands remained marooned in trains and autos. The Red Cross' midwest headquarters estimated 8,000 were stranded by the huge snow drifts in parts of Wyoming, Colorado and Nebraska.

There were another 2,500 travelers stranded in parts of Utah and Idaho. The Union Pacific railroad said eight trains in the two states were halted by the heavy, drifting snow.

Auto Fraud Victims Get Break On Taxes

CLEVELAND (AP) — The 500 persons who lost approximately $1,000,000 in the used car swindle of Jack S. Singleton may claim 92 per cent of their losses in figuring 1948 income tax returns.

Thomas M. Carey, collector of internal revenue, made the ruling yesterday in a letter to Theodore R. Spilka, attorney for Singleton's estate. Singleton now is serving a 10-to-70-year term in Ohio Penitentiary for collecting money for automobiles he never delivered.

AFTER THE TORNADO—Wreckage of homes as seen from the ground in Warren, Ark., where the twister struck with demoniac fury. People walk through the ruins, seeking bodies of loved ones.

Spy Hunters Call 'Felix'

Mystery Witness Again Testifies

NEW YORK—(UP)—The federal grand jury investigating espionage called its star "mystery" witness, Felix August Inslerman, for the third time today.

It was learned that he had been employed at the General Electric company plant at Schenectady since September 1946 and that he was an electrical engineer specializing in the highly secret guided missile warfare.

Before working at Schenectady he had been employed throughout the war by Republic Aviation corporation at Farmingdale, N. Y., where the American version of the V-1 buzz bomb was developed in 1944.

Inslerman refused to confirm or deny that he was the "Felix" mentioned by former communist spy courier Whittaker Chambers as the photographer who developed the microfilm of the "pumpkin papers." He said the name was only a "coincidence."

Work Harder, Europe Told

PARIS — (UP) — The management of the European Recovery program warned 19 western European nations today they will have to tighten their belts and work harder if they hope to get economic independence.

A report by the organization for European Economic Coöperation said that the way things are going now, western Europe still will have a $3,000,000,000 deficit in 1952 when Marshall plan aid ends.

To wipe out this deficit the 19 nations will have to cut their living standards from 10 to 25 per cent and work 15 per cent harder than they have been, the report said.

Fireworks Touched Off

Fight Shapes Up In Ohio Assembly

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Democrats in control of the new legislature made one thing clear today. They don't intend to be pushed around by Republicans who have had things their own way the past decade.

The 98th general assembly was barely in its second day when Democrats came under GOP fire. They fired right back.

Sen. Carl D. Sheppard (R.-Summit) opened hostilities Tuesday with a blast at Democratic Gov-Elect Frank J. Lausche, who takes office next Monday.

Democratic senators, who hold a thin majority, rallied to the incoming governor's defense. Outgoing Republican Gov. Thomas J. Herbert was caught in the crossfire

Sheppard, starting his sixth legislative term, said Lausche dictated the legislature's selection of its officers.

Sheppard said as a result he wouldn't serve on a Senate-House inauguration committee to which he was named by Democratic leaders. His remarks touched off the pyrotechnics.

Sen. Howard M Metzenbaum (D.-Cuyahoga) promptly denied interference of the governor-elect with organization of the legislature.

"It seems that when the titular head of a party takes interest in the legislature, he is charged with interference," Metzenbaum said. "If he doesn't, he is charged with lack of interest."

Meanwhile the Ohio House prepared to act on a Senate-passed six-month appropriation bill totaling $145,798,417, minus $25 monthly pay raises demanded by Republicans for state workers

Outgoing Republican Gov Thomas J Herbert gave his farewell message to a joint Senate-House meeting last night

He recommended spending $18,000,000 in the next six years to rehabilitate schools in 500 districts located in 74 counties. They comprise about one-third of the state's school districts.

Besides school aid, Herbert's recommendations included: Increased jobless benefits and equalized workmen's total disability payments, a bigger health department, unified conservation department and a division of civil defense to cope with disasters.

Ticket Sale Tops 1,200

Tickets sold for the 37th annual Chamber of Commerce dinner climbed to the 1,220 mark today.

Paul M Eliot, in charge of sales, urged persons desiring to attend, to purchase their tickets as soon as possible. The deadline for purchase is 5 p. m. Friday.

Although the banquet will not be held until Jan. 14, the deadline has been set a week ahead of time to determine food requirements for the affair.

Featured at the banquet will be an address by Eugene Pulliam, publisher of the Indianapolis Star-News. The entertainment will include a 30 minute vaudeville act called "Dixie Capers" and a 20 minute act entitled "Mystery in Bubbles." The Mansfield Choral society also is on the program.

Tickets may be purchased at Tawse drug store, Ritter's, Farmers bank, the Book Shop and the Chamber of Commerce.

Council Content to Let Issue Die

Truce Called In 'Fast' Time Dispute

By SHELDON BINN

An armistice in the battle over daylight saving time has been called for 1949.

Councilman Harry Hollingsworth, sponsor and chief exponent of the proposal last year, said he will not reintroduce the measure this year.

"We've still got the same councilmen and I don't think they favor the idea," he said.

Four other councilmen questioned on the matter said they had no intention of sponsoring a "fast time" bill this year. One said he favored the measure, but would not introduce it.

Several major skirmishes were fought over the question last year, and the measure was finally beaten by a legal technicality.

Council later tried to get the measure put on the November general election ballot, but failed to obtain a sufficient number of valid signatures.

Although all the councilmen said they thought the people should decide the issue, it is known that several made no great effort to get signatures on the initiative petitions and turned them in nearly empty.

The time proposal usually bobs up in the early spring when Cleveland and other large northern Ohio cities set their clocks ahead

Most of the agitation comes from business and industrial office which frequently run into confusion when dealing with firms in the cities on "fast" time.

The Mansfield city council, after several meetings and discussions, voted to set the clocks ahead in June. However, after the bill was passed, City Solicitor C. J. Kalbfleisch held that a two-thirds majority vote was required since the measure was voted as an emergency.

The bill was ruled out because it had been passed by only a simple majority.

Chief Asks Sixth Fire Station

Urges New Route To North Side

Construction of a No. 6 fire station in the vicinity of the Richland county fairground was recommended by Fire Chief L. J. Steele in his annual report to city council last night.

With the existing five fire stations No. 2 station services the northeast section of the city. Some runs must be made over a distance of two miles, Steele said.

Connected with the recommendation for a sixth station to provide better protection for the northeast section of the city, Chief Steele recommended that consideration be given toward another traffic outlet to the north end of the city.

At present, fire equipment traveling to that section must use either Bowman street, or go to Trimble road, a mile and a half to the west, he emphasized.

A report by City Engineer W. C. Statler recommending a concrete overpass between Rowland avenue and Howard street, was turned over to the street committee. The report, made at the request of council, estimated the cost of the project at $600,000.

Other recommendations made by Chief Steele included suggestions that the present traffic study be continued in order that the fire department can get better clearance in answering fire alarms.

He suggested that a new aerial ladder truck be purchased. The report said that the one now in use will have to be moved to the new No. 4 station (a two engine house) and therefore a new engine will be needed for the Central station, where the aerial is stationed at present. No 4 station is temporarily housed at the Hughes-Keenan plant while the new station is being built.

Jews Launch New Attack

CAIRO — (UP) — The biggest battle of the Palestine war was reported raging today in the soft desert sands around the Egyptian frontier town of Rafa, with the U. S involved diplomatically.

Egyptian sources said the Jews, thrown back last week in attempts to capture Rafa because their tanks and armored cars bogged down in the sand, were hitting the town again with the biggest forces they have ever used.

Egyptian forces are holding their ground, these reports said. Rafa is about one mile inside Egyptian territory but the reports did not make clear whether the fighting had passed onto Egyptian soil or if the battle still was being fought in Palestine

Rafa is on the main coastal highway between Egypt and Palestine. Large Forces of Egyptians hold Gaza, 20 miles north, and the highway between the two towns. Official reports indicated the Jewish attack was made out of the desert to the east.

Government Sues Mt. Vernon Firm

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The government yesterday sued Knox County Farms dairy of Mount Vernon, for $13,621, alledgedly due the department of agriculture in milk-handling fees.

The firm was one of six dairies charged in federal court with fraud under milk order 75. The government is attempting to recover a total of $34,776 by the suit.

Seeks Return Of Price-Wage Control Power

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman today asked the new Democratic Congress for $4,000,000,000 in new taxes, sweeping authority to impose price-wage controls and a broad program of social legislation.

Mr. Truman ranged far, calling for Taft-Hartley law repeal, aid to farmers, civil rights laws, universal training, broader social security, and federal programs in the fields of education and pre-paid medical insurance, plus 1,000,000 new public housing units in the next seven years.

He made his recommendations in the annual state of the union message before a joint session of the Senate and House. Most of his cabinet and members of the Supreme Court were present. Mr. Truman called his program a "Fair Deal." He said: "In the months ahead I know that I shall be able to cooperate with this Congress."

The President recommended that the new taxes be levied principally against corporations, without specifying what he has in mind. He also asked higher estate and gift taxes and consideration of increased personal income taxes "in the middle and upper brackets."

The tax proposal was part of a series of proposed anti-inflationary measures including standby power to impose wage and price controls, passage of a strengthened rent control extension, continued control of consumer credit and enlarged powers "to control bank credit."

And he coupled recommendations covering a series of New Deal proposals with a call upon business to plan for "steady, vigorous expansion—seeking always to increase its output, lower its prices and avoid the vices of monopoly and restriction."

Mr. Truman laid before the new 81st Congress virtually every recommendation he made in the 351 speeches of his 31,500 miles of campaigning for the presidency.

Included were calls for farm price supports and adequate storage space for wheat and other crops—two items he hammered hard in winning farm states which usually go Republican.

He asked, too, for repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law. He proposed re-enactment of the old Wagner Act with, however, prohibitions against "jurisdictional strikes and unjustifiable secondary boycotts."

BACKS CIVIL RIGHTS

He topped off a message sure to stir controversy in and out of congress with a new call for enactment of the entire slate of civil rights proposals he advocated last year.

Then, they not only failed of passage, but brought a cleavage in Democratic ranks and cost him four southern states.

"I stand squarely behind those proposals," he said.

The proposals include an anti-lynching law, repeal of the poll tax as a requirement for voting, prohibitions against discriminations in hiring because of race,

7 Soldiers Killed In Plane Crash

Craft Explodes, One Missing

AUBURN, CAL., — (INS) — The burned bodies of seven soldiers were found today in the scorched ruins of a C-47 weather ship which plunged into a mountain canyon near Auburn but an eighth was missing.

The missing man said to have been aboard the ill-fated craft was presumed dead.

The converted U. S. army transport exploded in mid-air and crashed in northern California's High Sierra last night in the second major plane disaster of the new year.

Placer County Coroner Francis E. West said seven bodies had been counted as they lay inside the smouldering wreckage at the bottom of the snow-covered American river canyon.

West, who was at the scene with a rescue party, said the bodies would be removed today and a search would be conducted for the eighth victim.

Army officers who went to the scene from McClelland field, Sacramento, said the C-47 was en route from Oregon to Hamilton field, north of San Francisco, when the crash occurred.

Investigation indicated the plane apparently, caught fire at an altitude of about 1,000 feet, exploded and then slid down in flames to crash about two miles from the point of explosion.

Masked Raider Throws Family Into Uproar

It took three men to subdue the masked intruder who strode calmly through the back door of the Howard Oswalt home, 422 West Fourth street, last night as Mrs. Oswalt was ironing.

Her terrified screams brought her husband to the kitchen where he tried in vain to rout the intruder. A call went out for reinforcements and Patrolmen Glenn Adams and C. E. Beard answered

En route to the Oswalt home they added John Todd, 400 Park avenue, to the rescue squadron. Upon their arrival at the Oswalt home, the masked intruder leaped into Todd's arms.

"Fine thing," he was undoubtedly muttering to his master, "when a pet raccoon can't even make a sociable call now and then!"

OHIO SAILOR KILLED

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — A sailor killed in a fall from a Pennsylvania railroad train near Harrisburg Monday night was identified by the Navy last night as Harry C. Bircher, of Columbus, O.

Kauer Named Highway Head

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Ohio's new highway director is an engineer who can bring to his job a wealth of experience and knowledge in highway construction problems.

He is 44-year-old Theodore J. Kauer, Lakewood, who was appointed to the post yesterday by governor-elect Frank J. Lausche.

From 1927 to 1942 Kauer worked in the Ohio Department of Highways with offices in Cleveland and Columbus. He was in complete charge of construction of the mammoth road cloverleaf separating U. S. route 21 and state route 17 south of Cleveland.

Walter Winchell

Gives Reasons For Not Revealing Secret Information to Readers

A man is indebted to his enemies for many things, but for none so much as the provocation by which he can set forth his record for his country. G. S., a Sun columnist, quoted a witness in the spy investigation as saying he had given the story of the spy ring to Walter Winchell in 1941. Mr. G. S. of the Sun wandered on to say that though Winchell reported the story to the Commander-in-Chief, a real newsman would have told the public.

These are the facts: When Isaac Don Levine was talking to me in 1941 he did not know, nor could he be expected to know, that I had been a Reserve Naval Intelligence officer since May 5th, 1934. (I have never been discharged and I have never resigned. I was ordered on the inactive list May 5th, 1934, but I got my verbal orders every day).

Still less could Mr. Levine be expected to know my orders. But I did, and I followed them. Neither Mr. Levine nor G. S. were in a position to know my orders, much less relieve me of their obligations.

Levine did not mention the name of Hiss or Chambers to me. His principal interest was an investigation into the death of General Krivitsky. He did not mention the clinching evidence of an active spy ring, the microfilm, for the good reason he didn't know about it.

I duly reported Levine's statements to the President, who already knew something was afoot. The American Intelligence services did act on it. As late as two years ago, for example a dossier on Hiss was handed to Secretary Byrnes.

There is a big difference between an Intelligence service and a police force, which slipshod reporters frequently overlook. Spies are not arrested; they are followed to uncover an enemy network. The Intelligence services call this: "Going up the ladder." It means locating the headquarters of the spy ring and all its agents. It frequently results in breaking the enemy's code. If the enemy has the slightest notice, the agent is flashed that his "cover is broken" and the enemy shifts to new lines of attack.

For a newsman to give notice to an enemy of his country for the sake of a story may make him a reporter in the eyes of G. S., but to this reporter he loses the name of American.

I learned the hard way that the House Committee was much more interested in their headlines than in my evidence. I also learned that the House Committee has as yet failed to do the one thing it has power to do: Recommend legislation to protect the country fully from all Fifth Columns.

Hal Boyle

Future Belongs to the Young; Have They the Needed Courage?

NEW YORK—(AP)—Well, boys here it is—the one they give you even with the knife to your throat.

It is the one they call the one for the road—the road ahead. That is a pretty phrase they created for the people who hoped the world was still civilized.

But it is really one of those days you live for that you hope your children will find a meaning for. Because somewhere, if you have any battle honesty, it lost a meaning for you yourself long ago.

But you hope the kids will recapture and cling to it as you did in those years . . . those years so long gone . . . when life had a purpose and a meaning.

It was in those dead days when you and the world were young . . . and the world throbbed to a special meaning.

Can they ever forgive you because you lost the tune you can never share—those gentle people who never knew its meaning?

No, not really. They can try—but they can't quite make the grade.

It isn't that you are set apart so much because you came back from a war they never knew—the war of hot metal, the war of a comrade flesh this moment, decay the next. Decay is the other side of life.

No, it isn't that so much. It isn't that they never made the foreign adventure turned deadly mutual. After all, as they have said for years, "many are called, few are chosen."

It is only that so many had the chance— and so few felt the call. It is as if adventure blew a bugle call next to the sleeping ear of mankind, and nobody awakened.

And that could only mean the eternal sorceress of man—the slim blonde girl that promises pastures green and new—had lost her charms.

It was only as if that all men who seek what they don't have should get together and agree on this idea:

"The search is no longer worth the effort."

It is as if all men should give up at once—and cease to be men.

It is as if—with victory one step away—that everybody decided he couldn't take that single step. And there before him squatted the waiting bird—victory!

Well, young man, they don't give you a medal for waiting—and few old men get medals for fighting. Here's the world before you. It's always been that way—till now.

Will it ever be changed? It could be. But life can't wait.

So here's the one for the road—the road to death, defeat or victory. It may be the road that only a philosopher can explain the difference about the end. But it was fun trying.

So here's for courage—whoever you are with courage! You can't meet life with less.

Richland AAA Funds Doubled

$66,560 Offered For Soil Building

Richland county has been allocated $66,560 for soil conservation payments under the federal Triple-A program, Guy L. Taylor, county AAA chairman, said today.

The amount is nearly double the $34,940 which was set up last year for payments to county farmers participating in the federal program.

The increase is in line wtih increases in the national appropriation, Taylor said. The 1949 national appropriation is $261,000,000 as compared with $150,000,000 for the previous year.

BUILDS SOIL

The funds will be used for building up the soil of Richland county farms. A number of improvement practices are awaiting the approval of Richland county's three Triple-A committeemen.

The committee will meet at 8 p. m. today at the AAA office to decide on practices the agency will support.

Chief among the approved practices is liming, Taylor said. Last year liming accounted for more than 75 per cent of the Triple-A's expenditures.

Ball Tickets Available

Tickets still are available for the inaugural dance next Monday night in Columbus, William A. Calhoun, ticket chairman for Richland county said.

So far the sale has been fairly good, Calhoun said. The governor's inaugural ball will be held in the Neil House in Columbus from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m.

Calhoun has tickets for sale as do Tom Huffman in the clerk of courts office, Mrs. Dorothy Davis and George Connor. Tickets will be available at the door.

Rites Arranged For Day-Old Child

Linda Marie Armstrong, one-day-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billie Armstrong, of Cook road, died today in Mansfield General hospital.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 1 p. m. at the grave in Mansfield cemetery. Rev. Ben F. Hagelbarger, of the First Christian church, will officiate.

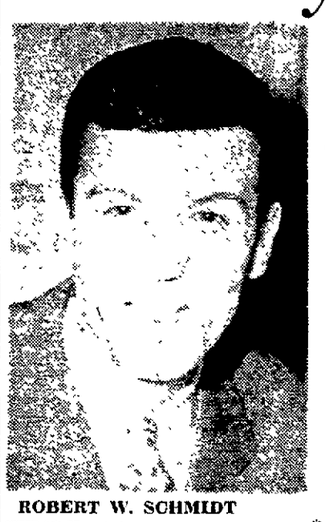
Surviving, besides the parents, are the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Watt, and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Armstrong, all of Mansfield. Wappner Funeral directors are in charge of arrangements.

Meets Tonight

Prof. William Craig of Wooster college will give a demonstration in make-up for the Little Theater group at 78½ North Diamond street tonight. It was erroneously reported yesterday that the meeting would be held last night.

New Secretary Outlines Objectives

Boosts Boys' Work In YMCA



ROBERT W. SCHMIDT

By DOUG CHEVALIER

Robert W. Schmidt, of Portsmouth, has begun his duties as the new YMCA boys' work secretary with a definite goal.

He is the first YMCA staff member on the professional level to devote his energies exclusively to the organization's boy membership.

His work here will be to carry out the YMCA program of developing boys morally, physically, and mentally throughout the city. Heretofore, he explained, the "Y" has had to confine its boys' work to the central "Y" because of the limitations imposed by the size of the staff.

Outside of a smattering of supervision over Hi-Y clubs, the program has not been able to extend over Mansfield and surrounding communities.

Among his objectives are a plan to start a district Hi-Y movement, which will take in an area all about Mansfield and the entire city itself.

Also planned are a Gra-Y program (organizations of boys in elementary schools corresponding to the Hi-Y), and junior Hi-Y groups for boys of junior high school age.

The goals he has set were arrived at after he had studied the situation here.

"There is a definite challenge for a boys' work staff member here in Mansfield," he said.

OUTLINES PROJECTS

Schmidt's proposed program to carry YMCA activities to the elementary schools includes such plans as trips, hikes, craftwork, tournaments, sports, movies, and community service projects.

He hopes his enthusiasm for his work will be matched by Mansfield's support and co-operation.

The tall, youthful secretary has been engaged in boys' work for 2½ years. He held a similar position to the one he has here in Portsmouth, before coming to Mansfield.

Reared in Miamisburg, a community of 6,000 near Dayton, he attended schools there, and upon his graduation went to Wittenberg college. His education was interrupted by a period of service in the Coast Guard during the war, aind after discharge he continued his studies at Otterbein.

He received his degree in 1946 with majors in business administration and sociology, and a minor in speech. While at Otterbein he was president of the student council, member of the campus council, and on the inter-fraternity council.

Schmidt is married and has two daughters, Pamela, two and one-half years, and Deborah four weeks. He expects to bring his wife, Vivian, and family to Mansfield within a month.

City Water Costs Up

Payments Reflect Increase In Rates

East side domestic water bills being collected at present by the water department for the six-month period ending Dec. 31, total 37 per cent more than the bills of a year ago for a similar period.

The increase in total from $28,308 to $38,811 is the result of the new water rates that went into effect on April 15, 1948, Fred Lingafelter, secretary of the water department said today.

The east side domestic sewer bills for the last six months total $10,045, as compared with $9,175 for a similar period last year. There is no great change because sewer rates were not raised along with the water rates.

Commercial water bills for the month of December total $9,868, approximately $2,800 over the same month in 1947. This is the result of the increased rates.

Lingafelter pointed out that commercial bills must be paid by Jan. 10 and domestic bills by Jan. 15 or a 10 per cent penalty will be added.

He asked persons paying their bills at the city building to be sure to bring their stubs with them. Those mailing the bills are asked to include the stubs.

Lockhart Heads Unit

A. L. Lockheart of Troy township yesterday was elected to head the board of supervisors of the Richland county Soil Conservation district.

Named vice chairman at a meeting in the county agent's office was Lewis L. Rinehart, of Sandusky township. This was the second time in less than 24 hours that Rinehart won an office. On Monday night he was re-elected chairman of the Richland county Fair board.

Kenneth Nixon, of Madison township, was elected secretary, and Harvey Snyder, of Worthington township, treasurer. Fifth member of the board is Warren Smith, of Butler township.

Horton Alger of the State Soil Conservation service outlined a plan of procedure for the group to follow in setting up the district.

Seal Sale Within $300 of Its Quota

The 1948 Christmas Seal sale is within $300 of its quota of $14,500, Mrs. Margaret Adams, executive secretary of the Richland County Tuberculosis association, said today.

She pointed out that 1,588 regular contributors have not made their returns yet, adding she hopes they will put the drive over the top.

Persons who have overlooked making their contributions were requested to do so at once, so the TB association may carry out its 1949 program.

Too Much Money Blamed for Inflation

Inflation is the result of an over-issue of money and not the outgrowth of high wages and prices, the editor of the Wall Street Journal said yesterday in Mansfield.

William H. Grimes, who won a Pulitzer prize for editorial writing in 1947, addressed the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs at a luncheon meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

"People have to get higher prices and higher wages because they are the victims of the pressure of a growing money supply," he said.

Grimes said people for years have been saying that "things were going to the dogs. But the only net gain of the dogs is that they eat balanced rations out of cans."

He said "things are permitted to go so far, and then you send the dogs back to their kennels and clean up the mess that brought them out in the first place.

"I think you probably will do that for two reasons. One is that you love your country and will not see it destroyed. Another is that if inflation gets rolling, it will first roll over people like you and me."

The editor used the story of a French king to illustrate the cause and effects of inflation and breakdown of the economic system.

"Demoralization and the breakdown of standards follow a breakdown in the money. We have been told Rome perished in a welter of voluptuous living. We have not been told often enough that debauchery of the money preceded debauchery of the citizen."

Grimes said the cure for inflation is to stop increasing the money supply.

SEES LONG TRAIL

"The operation lies at the far end of a maze of central banking and governmental fiscal technicalities," he added.

Grimes said a small book, written by the American ambassador to France at the end of the 18th century, described every inflation that ever took place.

"One issue of currency followed another. Prices spiraled. There was offered every reason but the right one. Farmers blamed wage earners. Wage earners blamed farmers. Each blamed employers. Everyone blame someone called the middle and there was serious discussion that if a middleman or two were caught and hung, things would right themselves."

He said the era ended itself in chaos and out of the chaos rose a strong man — "the strong man's name was Napoleon."

Grimes was introduced by his brother, Fred, sales manager for the Gorman-Rupp company.

Jim admits that when he got to the base of the trunk the clippers were a little inadequate, but a saw turned the final trick.

Project To Cost $100,000

Final Phase Gets 'Go' Sign

Construction of first portion of the third and last phase of the Clear Fork waterworks project was given the green light by city council last night.

Service-Safety Director Earl T. Garrison was authorized to advertise for bids for construction of a one and one-quarter mile long raw water pipeline from the dam to the site of the high lift-pumping station at the south end of Cook road. The legislators earmarked $100,000 for the work.

In addition to the raw water pipeline, "phase three" includes a low-lift pumping station at the dam site and a filtration plant at the site of the high-lift pumping station.

"Phase one" of the Clear Fork project, the dam, has been completed. The three items of "phase two," are either completed or under construction. They are the high-lift pumping station and the 24-inch pipeline from the station to the Woodland reservoir at the southwest corner of the city.

2 UNITS NEEDED

The filtration plant and low-lift pumping station are still in the blueprint stage, and water from the dam will not flow into Mansfield until they are complete.

Additional water will be available from the Maxwell field wells, however, as soon as the high-lift pumping station and 24-inch pipeline are complete.

Water that has been pumped through the present 12 and 14-inch lines via the Alta pumping station will move through the new pumping station and 24-inch line, increasing the flow to Mansfield by about 1,000,000 gallons daily.

Council approved two other measures directly connected with the Clear Fork project. One instructed City Solicifor C. J. Kalbfleisch to start condemnation proceedings to apppropriate land owned by William S. Volz. The land is needed for a right-of-way for the raw water pipeline.

Council appropriated $10,000 for engineering expenses and other incidentals connected with the Clear Fork project.

Puts Curb On Parking

An ordinance restricting daylight parking on the south side of Second street west of Mulberry street to two hours was passed last night by city council.

The measure will restrict parking on the south side of the street between Mulberry street and Sturges avenue from 7 a. m., to 5 p. m., except Sundays and holidays. Parking previously was banned on the north side of the street and was restricted to two hours on the south side from Mulberry street to the new Telephone building.

A claim for $3,311 for damage to his building on Sury road suffered when a water main broke in December, 1946, was filed by Kent Rummel with council.

He said the basement of the building was flooded, property destroyed and the building damaged. He said repair work on the building was completed last month.

Council also created two new sewer districts, the South Boulevards and Ausdale avenue districts, and authorized the service-safety director to grant a license to John M. Gottfried to maintain metal waste paper cans on city streets.

City's Cancer Foundation Incorporated By State

The Mansfield Cancer Foundation received its incorporation papers from the secretary of state yesterday.

The three incorporators named in the papers are Paul M. Eliot, Dean Dickerson, and C. K. Spreng.

In addition to these men, Harry Bowman and Harry Dailey are listed as trustees. The board of trustees will serve until a new board is chosen at the foundation's first annual meeting. May 15 has been set as the date for the meeting.

The foundation's charter states that its object is to promote and develop the organization which will devote itself to the diagnosis and treatment of cancer in Mansfield. The foundation has the power to provide funds and facilities for the program. It also has custody over all funds it may acquire, and the authority to invest such funds.

The charter further states that the organization will be non-profit, non-partisan, and non-sectarian, and will spend its funds for needy and deserving cancer sufferers.

Eliot said the foundation has been under consideration since the Mansfield Cancer clinic was started. Heretofore, he explained, people who have wanted to make gifts or bequests to care for Mansfield's cancer sufferers have given funds to the American Cancer society. One-half of the funds contributed to the society goes into a national fund. The other half is used locally, Eliot said.

Persons who contribute to the foundation, he emphasized, can be assured all their contribution will be used to combat cancer here.

Between now and May 15, the public will be welcomed to membership in the foundation.

Eliot said the main reasons for organizing the foundation was "to assure the continuance of the Mansfield Cancer clinic, and to provide for gifts and bequests by which Mansfield donations will be kept in Mansfield."

One of the goals, he continued, was to expand the diagnostic functions of the cancer clinic, and eventually to make it a treatment clinic.

Nowak Gets 23 As Rams Fall, 44-41

WILLARD—Willard's huge center, Hank Nowak, was too much for the Madison Rams here last night as he dunked 23 points through the nets to lead his team to a 44-41 victory.

Nowak, a husky, six-foot-seven giant, towered over the comparatively small Rams and took rebounds when it was impossible for them to do anything about it.

Willard jumped into a big lead early in the game but Madison made a determined comeback in the second half. The game had gotten rather rough by that time, however, and the size of the host Willard team paid off.

RAMS LED TWICE

Madison held its only leads at two occasions in the first quarter. They tied the game at 2-2 and 4-4, then pulled into a 5-4 lead on a free throw by Ray "Dutch" Bader. Willard rallied momentarily. They scored six straight points on field goals by Ed Chelski, Larry Secrist and Forrest Yahn. Yahn was substituting for Bader, who came up with a finger in his eye and had to be given a rest.

Willard then took command and went back into the lead, 16-10, at the end of the first quarter. Nowak had made 11 of the points.

The second period was when the game was really decided as Madison was stopped without a field goal while Willard built its lead to 28-15.

In the third quarter Willard was stopped cold as Jeo Distl, in the game as a substitute, did a fine job of keeping the ball away from Nowak. The Rams got back into the game, meanwhile, with a spirited and determined drive.

RALLY FALLS SHORT

After letting Willard score the first point of the period they tacked on seven of their own, gave Willard another free throw, then added two more field goals to pull within seven points at 33-26. Continuing this drive, they pulled up to 37-35 with Distl scoring the last three baskets.

Nowak dunked one to bring the margin back four points but Distl again hit the hoop. Nowak added a field goal and foul shot to bring the score to 42-37 before leaving the game with his fifth personal foul. Time ran out before Madison could capitalize on the big center's absence.

Distl did not start the game because of an injured back, but saw service throughout the last half. Bader, playing his best game of the year, led the Rams' scoring with nine points while Guards Larry Secrist and Ed Chelski each got eight.

Willard also won the reserve game by a 40-27 score.

Madison will be host to Wapakoneta Friday night when it goes after its fourth victory in six games.

Romano, 24-year-old end, was signed by the Lions shortly after completing his college career with North Carolina in the Sugar Bowl. He had been drafted by the Lions and by Los Angeles of the All-American Conference but chose Detroit because of its nearness to home.

TEMPLETON IS FIRST

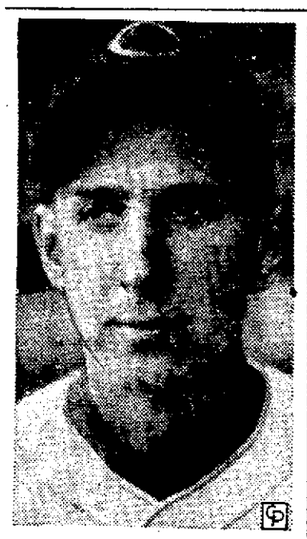
Dave Templeton, 1948, Ohio State captain and also a former Senior high star, was signed by the Cleveland Browns earlier in te week. Templeton and Romano both played under Paul Snyder on the 1939 Tyger football team when Templeton was a senior and Romano a sophomore.

Snyder was one of the first Mansfielders to learn of the signing and expressed great satisfaction, as he is a personal friend of Detroit coach Bo McMillin.

"I'm glad to see it," Snyder commented "because I don't know of a better football coach anywhere than McMillin, and I know that Joe will get every chance to make good."

OFFENSIVE ACE

Romano was a defensive specialist at North Carolina, where he seemed to have a penchant for recovering fumbles. His specialty led to the Tar Heels' only touchdown in the Sugar Bowl as he recovered an Oklahoma fumble to set up the score.



BOWLS HERE—Steve Gromek, Cleveland Indian mound star, will bowl with a Detroit baseball all-star pin team against Zahn's Construction in a Babe Ruth Cancer fund match Saturday night at the Richland Recreation Center. Gromek got his pro baseball start as a shortstop with the Mansfield Braves.

Madison Boosters Meet

The Madison high school boosters club will meet at 7:30 p. m. tonight at the school to make final plans for the football banquet of January 15.

He played three years of varsity basketball and football at Senior high and made all-Ohio in both sports in his senior year. He was honorable mention All-America this year. His three years at North Carolina followed one season at John Carroll.

Romano stands five-eleven, and weighs 210.

PLYMOUTH — Little Butler, winless in nine starts, rose up in rebellion here last night to trounce an overconfident Plymouth quintet, 45-34.

Dick Titlow as the big gun for Butler as he dropped in 15 points. Ted Brokaw scored 10. Plymouth salvaged the reserve game, 22-15.

Black Through As Tribe Hurler

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Don Black is through pitching for the Cleveland Indians, Club President Bill Veeck said today.

"If he is determined to try it again, I won't stand in his way. I'll give him his release, but I would not accept the responsibility of Don trying to pitch again," Veeck told a reporter.

Black, who collapsed during a game in September, is currently recuperating from brain surgery performed to alleviate a blood clot condition.

Considers Offer

HUNTINGTON, W. Va.—(AP)—Cam Hendrson, head football and basketball coach at Marshall college, said today he is giving "serious consideration" to an offer to become football coach at a school on the west coast.

New Reserve Unit Taking Shape In City

Col. Weaver Names Headquarters Staff

Mansfield, already a military nerve center of Ohio, is adding another important military unit to its growing roster.

A Military Government Service Training Company Group Headquarters, commanded by Col. Stuart M. Weaver, is rapidly taking shape.

At a meeting held at the office of Capt. R. N. Flynn, Mansfield Organized Reserve Corps Unit instructor, the scope of the unit was described by Capt. Harold Lutz who actively participated in military government training during the war.

Know in military circles by the abbrevation CA-MG Group Headquarters, the mission of this unit in war time is to take over the civilian functions in conquered or liberated areas.

This group utilizes the maximum resources of these areas for the furtherance of the military effort allowing the military to concentrate on military objectives.

The following staff was appointed tentatively by Col. Weaver:

Executive officer, Col. Paul Boyd; Governmental Affairs, S5, Col. Robert Nichols; Adjutant, S1, Major H. N. Wood; Intelligence, S2, Capt. Lutz; Operations, S3, Capt. Herald Everly; Supply, S4, Major Al Preyer jr.

Assistant, S3, Capt. David Snyder; Assistant, S4, Lt. Richard K. Elwell of Ashland; Administrative, Lt. Perry Phelps; Communications, Maj. John C. Swartz; Headquarters Detachment Commander, Capt. Paul M. Weyrick.

Col. Weaver stressed the importance of a military government unit. He pointed out that the broadness of its activities will allow reservists, both officer and enlisted, to utilize their civilian skills while maintaining their active reserve status.

These two facts are of great importance under the recent reserve set-up requiring officers to earn a stipulated number of points each year in order to remain on the active list and be eligible for retirement pay, and promotions for training satisfactorily completed.

There are still many vacancies in the unit. An active training program is being prepared. The next meeting of this group will be held Monday, Jan. 17 at 7:30 p. m. at the office of ORC unit instructor.

U. S. Acts to Halt Illegal Export of Possible War Goods

'Grayball' List Hits 150 Persons

Export Licenses Being Refused

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The Commerce department disclosed today that it has secretly "grayballed" more than 150 American exporters, suspected of illegally shipping "war potentials" to Russia and other export violations.

The exporters have been placed on a top-secret "grayball list," preventing most of them from receiving export licenses to ship strategic goods outside the United States.

At the same time, the department revealed that it is compiling a similar list of foreign importers believed involved in trans-shipping or other illicit schemes.

Commerce officials said that the action is designed to tighten existing export controls and curb multi-million dollar smuggling to iron curtain countries and black markets in Europe, Asia, and South America.

The license applications of all "grayballed" exporters are either refused outright, held up pending an investigation or subjected to special scrutiny before being approved.

Most of those whose names appear are prevented from shipping critical items to any destination and many are blocked from handling even the most innocent materials until completely cleared of all suspicion.

Officials said that the system is part of a strengthened enforcement program, "primarily aimed at preventing any important items from illegally falling into Russian hands."

Officials said that the least reasonable suspicion of export irregularities is enough to get a shipper's name on the exporters' "grayball list."

Truman Asks Higher Taxes

creed or color, and other similar legislation.

Asserting "the heart of our foreign policy is peace," the president requested that the hands of the country's diplomats and of the United Nations be strengthened by passage of a universal training law. He said its enactment "is essential to the security of the United States."

Until a system of world security is established "upon which we can safely rely," he said, "we cannot escape the burden of creating and maintaining armed forces sufficient to deter aggression."

Mr. Truman said "the state of the union is good," but that prosperity is threatened "at a number of critical points in the economy." He proposed his anti-inflation program to put him in a position to take effective action "at these danger spots."

The president recommended a minimum wage of at least 75 cents an hour (it is now 40 cents), a million new low-rent public housing units over the next seven years, expanded social security coverage and other social measures, and declared:

"We have rejected the discredited theory that the fortunes of the nation should be in the hands of the privileged few. We have abandoned the trickle-down concept of national prosperity. Instead, we believe that our economic system should rest on a Democratic foundation and that wealth should be created for the benefit of all.

"The recent election shows that the American people are in favor of this kind of society and want to go on improving it."

WANTS SURPLUS

At the same time, the chief executive said the government "must work with industry" as well as with labor and the farmers "to keep our industry running at full speed."

He said government alone cannot protect the economy "against the evils of 'boom and bust.'"

"Indeed," the president continued, "the greater part of the task must be performed by individual efforts under our system of free enterprise. We can keep out present prosperity, and increase it, only if free enterprise and free government work together to that end."

In support of his tax recommendations, the President said "it is essential not only that the federal budget be balanced, but also that there be a substantial surplus to reduce inflationary pressures, and permit a sizeable reduction in the national debt, which now stands at $252,000,000,000."

He did not specify that nature of the "additional corporate taxes" he wants imposed or how much of the four billion he would raise by this levy.

Six Perish In Flames

PHOENIXVILLE, PA., — (UP) —Six persons, including a child, were burned to death early today in a farmhouse fire blamed on chickens toppling over a kerosene brooder stove on the front porch.

The fire, which flared like a torch, leveled to the ground the two-story cinderbrick and frame home of Percy Lick, 30, in the village of Cromby; one mile northwest of here. The house was occupied by three families.

Lick, his British war bride, Theresa, and their five-year-old son, Vincent, died in the general-alarm blaze. Their other son, Michael, two, was believed to have been tossed out a window. He was treated at Phoenixville hospital for burns and bruises.

The three other dead were identified as Lick's brother, George, about 35; Elwood Patrick, about 40, a roomer, and Shirley Schwek, 15, a student at Phoenixville junior high school.

Mayor Says Tornado Sounded Like Locomotive At 60 MPH

WARREN, Ark. — (INS) — "The tornado sounded like a locomotive coming at me sixty miles an hour."

That's the way that Mayor James Hurley of Warren today described the tornadic winds that swept down upon his little town early Tuesday night, bringing death to at least 49 persons.

The town was the bulls-eye for the tornado which also struck at El Dorado, Ark., and some northern Louisiana communities.

Mayor Hurley told international news service:

"It made so much noise that I didn't even hear the racket made by the house when it was rooted up and thrown into the air.

"Every house and building in the tornado's path was destroyed—and I mean one hundred per cent destroyed."

The municipal leader said that he heard the devastating winds rumble into town about 5:15 p. m. He estimated they traveled a route one quarter to a half of a mile in width and two miles long. He said the speed could be described only as "terrific."

Mayor Hurley said that the place was thrown into chaos immediately after the winds struck. Citizens were dazed by the sight of their homes being twirling into the sky "like bouncing balls," according to the mayor.

He said water lines were ripped up and power knocked out by the destructive blast of the elements.

Other tornadoes have hit near the area, but this was the first time that Warren ever suffered a direct blast. Mayor Warren concluded:

"I pray that it will be the last, because this tornado was hell."

Sees Pact Helpful But Perplexing

Cites Dangers Of Alliance

The pacts and plans now being worked upon to make non-communist Europe secure against aggression raise certain crucial questions which will have to be answered correctly if this most necessary and desirable project is not to produce more trouble than it cures.

An alliance is now being formed among the north Atlantic democracies — Britain, France, and the three Benelux countries on the European side, with Canada and the U. S. A. on this side of the ocean. But if we look at the map, we see that between the alliance of the Atlantic democracies and the Soviet orbit there is a large intervening belt of peoples extending from Scandinavia through western Germany, Austria, and Switzerland to Italy.

Our policy in respect to the countries of the intervening belt will, I believe, determine the character of the Atlantic Alliance, and its effect for good or evil.

There are two broad lines of policy which can be followed. The one is to invite and induce, to push, prod and encourage, the Scandinavians, the Western Germans, the Austrians, the Swiss and the Italians to enter the military coalition of the Western world. The other is to keep the Germans demilitarized and to encourage and assist the others to be neutrals, committed only to their own self-defense.

Anyone who travels in western Europe today will come upon the tracks of all sorts of zealous cold warriors who think it self-evident that every country which is not within the Soviet orbit should be drafted into the Western coalition. They suppose that the more nations we can commit and, conversely, the more nations we can commit ourselves to support and defend, the greater will be the general security and our own. I think they are profoundly mistaken, and that the effort to include everyone in the Western coalition tends to weaken it, not to strengthen it.

For it is altogether impossible for the United States to forge an iron ring around the vast perimeter of the Soviet empire in Europe and Asia. The defense against Soviet military expansion cannot be achieved by attempting to organize, arm, equip and finance a great encircling coalition composed of inherently weak and dubious allies.

The real defense against aggression is not a policy of military containment. It is a policy of the balance of power. For if the Soviet Union has, or had, an idea of military agression, what has restrained her, and will continue to restrain her, is not the local capacity for resistance but the certainty that the total power of the United States would be involved.

If that is correct, then the military advantages that could theoretically be gained by bringing in the Scandinavians, the Western Germans, and the Italians are more than offset by the military liabilities.

To include Germans, Austrians, and the Italians would be to invite them to overthrow the armistice agreements and the treaties. It would give the masters of the Soviet Union a perfect legal case for military action if they chose to risk it. Not only would they have the perfect casus belli in any international tribunal but politically and morally they would be certain of wide popular sympathy throughout the continent among the peoples who, because they were occupied by the Germans, have not become so interested in the next war that they have forgotten the last one.

Moreover, to push these weak and exposed countries to commit themselves to a military coalition can only make them still weaker. For if they join our coalition, they are renouncing their chance to stay out of war and in return they get no guaranty that they can be successfully defended. No doubt it is difficult to remain neutral in modern world wars.

But the Swedes, the Swiss, the Portugese and the Spaniards have managed it, and the Italians wish they had tried.

My own view, for what it may be worth, is that the real purpose of the Atlantic Pact and the military assistance to go with it is threefold: First, to increase the armed forces in western Europe sufficiently to make it certain that none of the governments can be overthrown by the fifth column.

Second, to create a framework of agreements by which the United States maintains armed forces in Europe after a peace treaty is agreed to for Germany.

Third, to create a feeling of confidence that a blitzkreig could be resisted long enough to give us time to brin up reinforcements.

But the real protection against war will continue to be the fact that an advance by the Red Army would provoke the total power of the United States. The security of Europe rests on that fact.

For though our forces in Europe are small, and no match for the Red Army, they are, as one statesman put it to me, like the plate glass windows in a jewelry shop—a good protection because to break that window would be to start a hue and cry by all the police.

Leap Year Fails to Boom Cupid's Business In County

Leap year was almost a dud for Cupid in Richland county.

Marriage licenses were issued to 788 couples in the county last year, a drop of 135 from the 1947 figures.

And compared with the record year, 1946, when the fellows came back from the war, Cupid made an even sadder showing. In that year 1,046 couples obtained licenses to wed.

But the marriage license business generally has shown a gradual increase in the county since 1900.

For instance, in the 10-year period from 1900 to 1910, the average per year was 431; from 1910 to 1920, the yearly average was 454; from 1920 to 1930, it edged up to 509 licenses per year; and from 1930 to 1940, the average fell to 399—because of the depression.

From 1940 to 1945 it jumped to 696 per year. The 1945 figure was 685.

Last month there were 61 licenses issued, the same as in November, while in December, 1947, there were 64 licenses issued.

Low Morale Charge Denied

WIESBADEN—(UP)—Maj. Gen. William H. Tunner, commander of the Berlin airlift, denied today that morale in his command is low and pointed to tonnage records to prove his claim.

Tunner brought out reams of performance records during an interview to show his Anglo-American task force was flying more goods than ever into blockaded Berlin despite recent reports that morale was low in the organization.

"My boys have made a splendid record, and you don't make a splendid record with bad morale," he said. "It takes fine morale to go beyond an average job."

BUS KILLS AGED WOMAN

Kills Baby; Stabs Wife

PITTSBURGH, — (UP) — An army veteran last night stabbed his three-month-old son with a kitchen knife then took him by the legs and bashed his head against a bedroom wall because he didn't want to bring him up "in such a troubled world."

When his wife tried to stop him, John Mahoney, 26, stabbed her repeatedly about the head and body until she fell unconscious, the dead baby in her arms.

When police arrived at their Beechview district home, Mahoney was trying to commit suicide by slashing his wrist and throat.

His wife, Mildred, 28, was in critical condition in Mercy hospital with 12 stab wounds. Mahoney was recovering from superficial cuts at the same hospital. Police said he was "violent" and had to be strapped to his bed.

Galion Power Case Counsel To Be Hired

Council Approves 2 Resolutions

GALION—Council last night suspended rules to pass a resolution providing for employment of counsel to defend the city in the Galion power case now pending in the Crawford county courts. This is an injunction suit brought by City Solicitor George H. Davies against the franchise ordinance which granted the sale of electric current by the Ohio Public Service company to two local industries.

An other resolution accepted the amounts and rates as submitted by the county budget commission. The tax rates were for 3.80 inside the 10 mill limit and 1.30 outside the 10 mill limit.

The financial report of the firemen's relief and pension board showed a balance of cash and bonds amounting to $22,489.45. This was accepted by council.

Service Director K. A. Poister reported $900 worth of wire on the East Side park lights and shelter house construction must be sent back and it would be bids as the legality of paying the bill was questioned. It also was said an architect must be hired and his plans approved by the state before a contractor could start construction.

After a lengthy discussion, council was urged to take immediate action on a complete survey of the city's sanitary sewers.

Reopen Phone Rate Hearings

COLUMBUS —(INS)— The State Utilities commission reopened hearings today on the application of the Ohio Bell Telephone company for permission to increase rates by about nine per cent per month to 80 per cent of Ohio's telephone subscribers.

The company finished its case for the rate boost which would net Ohio Bell an additional $8,500,000 last Dec. 2.

Former Senator James W. Huffman, representing 13 cities protesting the increase, asked for a delay at that time to provide opportunity to study the thousands of pages of exhibits introduced by the company.

77 Donate Pint of Blood In Bucyrus

100 Report to Columbus Unit

BUCYRUS — Seventy-seven pints of blood were contributed here yesterday when the Red Cross bloodmobile unit from Columbus set up headquarters at First Presbyterian church.

One hundred volunteers reported to donate blood but 23 of these were rejected, Mrs. Lloyd Deerwester, recruiting chairman, reported today. Goal for the day was 100 pints.

The program will provide Bucyrus residents with whole blood for transfusions free of charge and at the same time establish a blood reserve against local disaster or national emergency, Mrs. Helen Weaver, executive secretary of the local Red Cross chapter, pointed out.

First donor was Mrs. Clarence Marks of nearby Chatfield. Her donation was the eighth she has made to the Red Cross blood program.

The bloodmobile will return on Thursday, Feb. 10, for additional donations to replenish the supply on hand at City hospital here.

But while the number of persons arrested dropped, the traffic accidents climbed from 141 in November to 171 in December. Although there were more accidents, the number injured remained the same at 26.

One traffic fatality occurred last month when, on Dec. 31, Corliss Crow of Columbus, was killed in a two-car collision on Lexington avenue.

Parking tickets issued by the department climbed from 912 to 1,163 upping the income from that source from $972 to $1,185.

Fines and costs collected for offenses other than traffic violations totaled $1,357.

Of the 108 persons arrested for other than traffic law violations, 74 were apprehended on intoxication charges, eight for assault and battery and six for breaking and entering.

Stock Mart Trading Halts Pending Truman Speech

NEW YORK —(AP)—Trading in stocks dried up in today's market while investors and speculators waited to hear the President's State of the Union message to Congress.

The general undertone of the market was steady. Price changes were small and mostly in an upward direction. Several steel issues, as well as others, developed a balky streak.

Disclosure by the President of the terms of his legislative program is expected to dispel one of the market's major uncertainties.

Last-minute speculation ranged from the theory that the President would announce a program with strong leftish tendencies to a belief that his proposals would be unexpectedly mild.

Of course two can live as cheaply as one—if each is satisfied with half of whatever there is.

Word comes that the Kansas legislature "expects to dispose of liquor in a week"—which indicates a new high in optimism.

A church organ is reported among things stolen in 1948—which reminds that a copy of the Bible is still missing from the office bookcase.

States May Legally Ban Closed Shop

DECISION by the United States Supreme Court upholding the right of states to legislate against "the closed shop" is expected to have far-reaching effect as leaders of labor organizations turn to the task of gaining congressional repeal of the Taft-Hartley law, in which the anti-closed shop section has been strongly opposed.

Cases before the Supreme Court dealt specifically with statutes enacted in North Carolina, Nebraska and Arizona, but thirteen other states have passed similar laws, some by constitutional amendment and others by legislative action.

Main point in arguments presented hinged on the closed shop practice of barring a man from employment unless he held union membership and the high court rejected contention by attorneys for labor organizations that the ban violates the rights of union members.

Justice Hugo Black, who delivered the court's opinion said: "Just as we have held that the due process clause erects no obstacle to block protection of union members, we now hold that legislative protection can be afforded non-union members."

What seems to be established by this Supreme Court opinion is the right of individual decision by each worker in the matter of union membership, rather than that this be by compulsion, in order to secure and hold a job. With the Taft-Hartley federal law now being so strongly attacked, the whole subject of the future course of legislation designed to curb organized labor practices deemed detrimental to the public welfare will continue to hold much interest.

Need For 'In-Between' Coins Seen

SENTIMENT for addition of some new coins to the small change assortment now has a formal spokesman. An American Institute for Intermediate Coinage has been organized, and will urge creation of pieces worth two and a half and seven and a half cents.

There has been no change in small coins since 1889, when the copper three-cent piece was withdrawn. There is a hint in this fact that it is not easy to make changes in the money. Popular reaction is such as to make congressmen tremble, as may be recalled from the withdrawal of gold coins fifteen years ago.

Small coins play an important role in money dealings. Until the war years, they had amounted to almost a tenth of all the money in circulation. Things changed then, and now small coins are less than a twentieth of all the money.

But a large amount of daily buying is of articles and services with small prices. If priced with exactness, they run into odd cents on the current market; if priced for convenience in round figures of five or ten cents, either buyer or seller loses. For some time it has been argued that intermediate coins, between a penny and a nickel and between a nickel and a dime, are needed.

Fair Treatment of Oleo Sought

BACKED by the force of public opinion, it appears that discriminatory treatment of oleomargarine is on the way out. Action by the present Congress to remove excessive taxes from this household commodity now seems assured and the Ohio legislature is unlikely to disregard the widespread demand that manufacture and sale of colored oleo be permitted in this state.

Congress and the state legislature have been under strong pressure for years to prevent removal of barriers against the manufacture and sale of colored margarines and the time has now come for a test of whether or not public interest will take precedence over lobbyists who have thus far succeeded in retaining unfair restrictions against a competitive product.

Vision Atomic Energy's Application

IT IS EXCITING NEWS that the use of atomic energy to power ships is now within the range of experiment. This does not mean that the scientists know how to do it, but does indicate that scientists believe an experiment in practical use of the dividing atom will be worth while. Some think a ship's boiler using atomic energy can be designed in two years, others that perhaps it can be done in six years.

The Navy wants such a boiler for warships. Success would change the whole concept of naval strategy. The factor which now limits the capacity of any warship to range the seas and to fight is the amount of fuel which can be carried. With an atomic power plant, a submarine or a battleship could carry enough fuel for years of sailing, and the limiting factors would then be food, ammunition and other supplies, which can be replaced at sea more readily than fuel.

If such a boiler can be made for a warship, would there be any practical reason to prevent making one for a merchant ship? The effect on shipping would be almost as revolutionary as on naval operations, for merchant ships are limited by fuel requirements as to the cargoes they can take on and the itineraries they can sail.

The invention of an atomic boiler could be as significant to the issues of war and peace as the atomic bomb. The demand for its use in the commerce of the seas would be a tremendous pressure for the making of a peace secure enough to permit civilian use of the atom.

As the Kansas City Star finally figures it out, "all the common people voted for Truman and only 20 million greedy millionaires were for Dewey."

Claude Callan warns: "A bad habit may pet you a lot at first, but in time it begins scratching."

Handle that good resolution carefully—it's fragile.

Raymond Moley's Analysis

Study Being Devoted to Future of Polls

A COMPETENT committee of the Social Science Research Council has reported the results of an autopsy of the late lamented polls of the 1948 election.

Many of its findings make good sense and will have a wholesome effect upon future pre-election comment. For in the burst of ridicule and damnation of the polls after the election there was a distinct danger that the real value of polls would be forgotten or destroyed. It is time now to look to the future and see the case of the pollsters in a more constructive light.

The attitude of the major poll takers themselves since the election has been commendable.

They did not lose their good humor in the face of damaging criticism. And at least three of them—Gallup, Roper and Crossley—agree that this committee report is fair and constructive.

Perhaps the most illuminating idea which has come out of the discussion and out of the committee report is Elmo Roper's suggestion that this failure should not lessen the efforts of everyone—newspaper men and scientists—to study and understand human behavior.

* * *

"Exact Sciences" Progress.

SUCH efforts greatly ante-date modern polls. They existed 2,000 years ago when Aristotle and Plato wrote about politics.

Polls are only one smart part of the effort to discover what factors influence human beings in politics.

The modern popularity of polls was in large part the outcome of a movement 30 or more years ago to use the methods of natural science and mathematics in economics and politics.

In those years there was unbounded optimism among those who thought that social science could be exact.

More thoughtful people after this first burst of enthusiasm realized two things: First, that human nature includes too many subtle and undiscovered factors to be weighed and measured; and, second, that the so-called "exact sciences" were still far from exact.

In medical science, for example, discoveries of the past few years have revolutionized not only the diagnosis but the treatment of diseases known for centuries.

When, as was the case a few years ago, a man was treated by psychiatrists for headaches and no one discovered a tumor of the brain until autopsy, it shoud be clear that the hidden and indecisive impulses of a voter's mind can hardly be weighed in an election campaign.

Delusions are not confined to the social sciences; they exist in fields which deal with the most concrete problems. A road engineer once told me—and I cannot vouch for his opinion—that builders believed a few years ago that to divide a highway by a curb or island would increase accidents; and that long after billions were spent on that theory, opinion changed to the present conviction that such divisions are real elements of safety.

Nature, especially human nature, is still an unexplored continent. The most important lesson learned by this writer from the great debacle is that the whole is the sum of the parts.

Bits of local information were coming late in October to the effect that this state or that city was veering to the Democratic side.

But something which we can call a national feeling pointed to a great Republican tide. And so these warning signals from Ohio, New Mexico, Montana, Minnesota, Iowa and Illinois were discounted. "The Dewey sweep" will prevail, it was thought. But there is no national opinion. There is only the sum of many opinions. We shall know more in 1950. We hope.

Jan. 15 Tax Deadline

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON—January 15 is a deadline for several million people who must pay on their "estimated" income tax for 1948.

They're the ones who haven't had the full tax, or any tax, withheld from their 1948 wages or income.

In 1948 most people's income was from wages. And most of them had the full 1948 income tax withheld from them. If you're in that group, don't worry about Jan. 15. You'll make your final return by March 15.

But Jan. 15 is the deadline—if it means you—for filing, changing and paying your declaration of estimated tax for 1948.

Here are the people in that group:

1. Those from whose 1948 income no tax was withheld, such as doctors, landlords, servants, farm hands, some farmers, and so on.

Last March 15, knowing no tax was to be withheld from their 1948 income, they should have estimated their 1948 income and the tax on it.

And, beginning last March 15, they started paying the tax in quarterly installments. Their last quarterly payment is due Jan. 15.

2. Those who had some tax, but not all the tax due, withheld from their wages. They should have been paying, starting last March 15, the difference between the tax withheld and the full tax due. The final, or last quarterly payment, is due Jan. 15.

3. Those who had full tax withheld from their 1948 wages but received more than $100 in outside income for a wage earner, for instance, would be rents, sales, dividends. Jan. 15 is a deadline for them, too.

4. Some farmers—the law allows this—didn't make any tax payments at all in 1948 on 1948 income because they were uncertain about what that income would be. In their case they must now estimate the tax due on their 1948 income and pay it in full.

* * *

Some Will Get Refund.

PEOPLE in all four groups can make their return by Jan. 15 on Form 1040-ES or Form 1040. If you use Form 1040, it can stand as your final return on 1948 income. It's easier for you.

It will mean more work for you if you use Form 1040-ES. This is why: On March 15 you'll have to file your final return on Form 1040 anyway, even though you filed a return Jan. 15 on Form 1040-ES.

(The people not in the four groups above will have to file their final return by March 15.)

But some of the people in the four groups, for one reason or another, may find it best for them to file their return on Form 1040-ES by Jan. 15 and then make their final return on Form 1040 by March 15.

For example: They got a raise during the year and will not know precisely by Jan. 15—because the boss didn't give them a receipt showing the facts—what their total 1948 income was and how much tax was withheld from them.

Here's something else to remember:

Some people who have been making quarterly payments on their 1948 estimated tax, find now they underestimated that tax.

If they've underestimated by more than 20 per cent, they should make the correction and pay in full by Jan. 15, otherwise there's a penalty.

Remember this, too: Some people started making quarterly payments last March 15. Then in the spring Congress cut taxes. Now they find they have a refund due them.

If they file their final 1948 return by Jan. 15 on Form 1040, they'll get their refund from the government faster than if they waited until March 15, when the government is swamped with returns.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Three Dixiecrats Panned During Caucus

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—John Rankin of Mississippi, Gene Cox of Georgia and Howard Smith of Virginia were a chastened trio when they crept out of the House Democratic caucus last week after their protests against modernizing the House rules committee were squelched by a 176-48 vote.

Never before in their long careers had they been sat upon quite so hard. Even freshman congressmen at the closed-door meeting joined in heckling Rankin, who surpassed all his previous demagoguery by charging that the move to revise rules committee procedure was hatched in Moscow.

"The effort to change our rules was initiated by the FEPC (Fair Employment Practices Commission) gang," stormed the half-pint Mississippian. "The FEPC proposition, as everybody knows, was first propounded by Joe Stalin in 1920."

This gem brought howls of uncontrolled glee. Veteran Congressman John Dingell of Michigan broke into say:

"Isn't it true that the rules committee blocked important housing legislation in addition to the FEPC Bill? Isn't it true that the banking and currency committee at the last session reported a housing bill which the rules committee refused to accept? Instead, the rules committee gave us a substitute bill dictated by the real estate lobby. As everybody knows, that was put over by the very men now trying to perpetuate the blockade of liberal legislation."

"You are trying to blast the rules committee out of existence," loudly objected Cox of Georgia. "You are trying to change the American form of government."

* * *

Dixiecrats Helped GOP.

OH, NO, we're not. We are trying to preserve it," retorted Rep. Herman Eberharter of Pennsylvania. "Harry Truman was elected President and we have a Democratic Congress without any help from the gentleman from Mississippi and these other gentlemen whose obstructionist tactics in the 79th Congress were partly responsible for a Republican victory in the 80th. I'm glad this test has come. It will show how many Democrats intend by their votes to carry out their campaign pledges to the people."

Majority Leader John McCormack explained that if the resolution to speed up rules-committee procedure carried by a two-thirds vote in the caucus, all Democrats would be bound to vote for the resolution as a unit on the House floor.

"Well, what's going to happen to us if we violate the decision of the caucus?" yelled Cox.

"You may get rapped on the knuckles," shouted New York's "Manny" Cellar, amid laughs.

"Suppose we walk out of this caucus right now before the vote is taken—will we still be bound to vote for the resolution on the floor?" inquired the Georgian.

"Yes," ruled presiding officer Francis Walter of Pennsylvania, "unless you can prove that abiding by the decision of the caucus is a violation of the Constitution, or unless this issue had a bearing on your election in the last campaign."

"Just remember you are Democrats," McCormick taunted Cox, "and let your conscience be your guide."

'New' Vs. 'Old' Lineup

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON — No Congress in recent years has been so filled with fevers, frets and ferments as the new 81st Congress.

Transplanted here now are all the emotions and aspirations whipped up in one of our most curious and surprising elections. That, of itself, forecasts one of the most exciting political dramas enacted here since the early days of the Roosevelt New Deal 15 years ago.

The problem facing the Democratic party which must manage the new Congress is one of redeeming the lavish and often conflicting promises made by President Truman in his successful barnstorming crusade of recent memory.

For the Republican party the problem is, in effect, to save its soul.

In both parties there is a sharp feud going on between the old order and the new, between conservatism and progressivism, as it is sometimes called in old-fashioned language, or, in these latter days when fancy ideological terminology is the fashion, between Right and Left. This is a complicating factor that makes predictions of what may happen in this Congress unwise.

The feud within the Democratic party exhibits itself openly at the outset of Congress in agitated complaints by the newer, younger and more progressive element against moribund rules and procedures of Congress that favor the more conservative viewpoint, particularly as represented by conservative southerners who, as usual, occupy key posts of influence out of proportion to their actual numbers.

This explains the controversy in the House revolving about the Rules committee, that group of party elders heavily weighted ordinarily toward conservatism which has assumed to itself the power to sidetrack or bottle up bills of a progressive sort duly approved by the appropriate legislative committee, though it is supposed to be only a procedural committee to expedite House business in an orderly way. The progressive group won their way by voting for a rules change which would make it possible to force the Rules committee, after 21 days, to bring any bill approved by a legislative committee before the House for a vote on whether it should be considered.

* * *

Shift In Committees.

THIS explains also the attempt, which was successful, of the progressive element to get adequate representation on the House Ways and Means committee, also usually weighted in favor of conservatism by excess southerners.

This committee is very important now, for its Democratic members constitute the committee on committee that makes other committee assignments. It is the mechanism by which the influence of the last election could be exerted properly—or thwarted.

The Democratic caucus, in filling six Democratic vacancies on the committee, chose men who are regarded as generally favorable to the administration viewpoint.

In the Senate, of course, is the filibuster, by which southerners can block, as they have before, the President's civil rights program.

In all these devices the progressives feared that the election might be diffused, or lost, which also, incidentally, is recognized clearly in the White House, where sits a President who knows from his 10 years in Congress how this can happen.

The war between the new and the old in the Republican party is revealed in the revolt of 13 newer and younger senators against the conservative old-line leadership.

They proceed on the theory that it was the record of the 80th Republican Congress that lost the election and that it was the old-liners who were responsible for that record.

While they were aware in advance that they could not unseat Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, whom they picked as a symbol, from his dominant position of chairman of the party's Senate policy committee, they decided to make this preliminary skirmish nevertheless for the record.

As Cerf Tells It

Not all the unusual people in Hollywood are in the moving picture business. Consider the case of the owner of a bar and grill on Beverly boulevard who had a neon sign erected which reads, "For the love of Mike, come in and eat before we both starve."

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

NOW that babies are being government-registered as quickly as they are born there will be the usual rush for a low number.

* * *

But until we get accustomed to the idea, a nurse should not rush up to a man expecting twins and cry "Congratulations! You are the father of 168-29-00032!"

* * *

He might gasp before he expired. "And I thought two pairs of booties was enough!"

* * *

Well it will be a sad day for matrimony when the "Over 20" prospective bride has to give her serial number for the license.

* * *

January 20 will be a sad day for President Truman unless Congress has raised his salary by then. . . . It now appears that he will have to get the increase by then, wait for four years, or join the CIO.

Exploring New Trails

By CALVIN A. BYERS

I LIKE to explore new trails. To go unhurriedly through a strange woods, on foot—or even to explore country byroads by auto—is enjoyable. Here among the hills where we live, it is possible to lose oneself, for the roads follow ridges and valleys—without stereotyped right angles and parallels as in many parts of the country.

Among our hills you will find many modern, comfortable homes—even some wealthy men's estates. Sometimes too, you will find a hermit's shack or a dilapidated high-ceilinged old house where a crone vainly tries to maintain memories of happier days. If you talk with the people, their stories will not coincide, although you feel sure all are honest in their opinions.

Things look different to a hermit than to the father of a growing family; perhaps the crone sometimes has reason to be suspicious even of kindness.

So a man must take things as they come along, and use what he can of the experience he acquires.

Here's a fellow who has impounded the water of his artesian well to run a "ran" so that it furnishes perpetual water supply for all his premises.

Here is another whose pond produces more fish than his family needs. He will drain it and convert the fish into fertilizer. One man has grown a superior corn crop from non-hydrid seed; another has worked out a mineral ration for hogs that seems to produce pork faster. Still another puts his energy into training and feeding a pack of hound dogs. He doesn't talk much about his "take" of pelts, even if you ask him. But he lives and "has allus got along."

Here's an orchard farm that has had a crop every year since I came to this county; and another that seldom has more than a few trees laden with fruit. Here a man lost all his cattle with Bang's disease, and another who maintains 20 cows and a big family of children in what appear to be very inadequate buildings, but has both cattle and children prospering.

I have come to a sign sometimes that says "End of the Road." There was nothing to do but to turn back and make a new choice at the first crossroads . . . unless I would choose to break my own trail through the underbrush beyond the road sign.

There are "thought pioneers" who break trails for the rest of us to follow. I have known a few—strange men who dare risk their lives and reputations and laugh at ridicule. For most people dislike new roads—and fear new thoughts. So they make fun of all pioneers.

Albert Schweitzer has said: "I therefore stand and work in the world as one who aims at making men less shallow and morally better by making them think . . . just as a tree bears year after year the same fruit and yet fruit that is new each year, so must all permanently valuable ideas be continually born again in thought . . . living Truth has its origin in thinking."

Ashland Cite Traffic Mark

ASHLAND — Ashland's city administration is pointing with undisguised pride to an entire year without a traffic fatality within the city limits.

Police Chief Harry Smith and city patrolmen are particularly proud of the fatality-free year, since extra efforts were made throughout the year to bring traffic under better control and to warn against dangerous driving.

The county did not fare so well. There were 17 fatalities recorded among traffic accidents in the county outside of Ashland. The death rate was higher than in 1947 when there were but 13 fatilities including two within Ashland city limits.

Worst period for the county included the last three months of the year when there were three fatalities during each of the three months.

DOLLY MADISON CLUB HAS MEETING AT BECKER HOME

Plans Discussed for the Coming Year's Work at Business Session on Tuesday.

THE OPENING MEETING for the new year for Dolly Madison club members was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. E. L. Becker, 130 Vennum avenue. Forty were in attendance for the business session and social hour. Mrs. George Davis, president, conducted the business meeting at which time routine reports were given.

Mrs. Davis urged the members to contact their precinct chairmen in arranging work for the coming year. She read an article from Democratic Digest, written by President Harry Truman, and one by India Edwards, executive director of the woman's division of the Democratic National Committee.

Discussion was held on the inauguration of Governor Lausche, to be held in Columbus, Jan. 10, and the number of Dolly Madison members who will attend.

Mrs. Charles Freehafer served as chairman for the evening, assisted by Mrs. J. C. O'Donnell, Mrs. Herman Homberger, Mrs. Mildred Peterson, Mrs. Sam Martin, Mrs. Janet Leonard, Mrs. Becker, Mrs. Fred Stahlheber, Mrs. Mary Ross, Mrs. Bertha Wengert, Mrs. P. C. Davis and Mrs. A. J. Winget.

When refreshments were served Mrs. Homberger poured. The table was lovely with a lace cloth, lighted tapers and poinsettias. The next regular meeting will be held Feb. 1, the place to be announced later.

Sorosis Club Given Program On Poetry

Mrs. W. Frank Wilson presided as hostess to fourteen members of the Mansfield Sorosis club at the Women's club Tuesday afternoon with the members responding to roll call with original jingles.

This was in line with the day's program, entitled, "Poetry Old and New", which was in charge of Mrs. S. D. Hoover and Mrs. John Angle.

Mrs. Hoover read a paper on "Old Poetry" in which she attributed the beginning of poetry-writing to pre-historic man, whose chants and songs inspired periods of revelry and eventually led to wars.

Poetry down through the Biblical times, Mrs. Hoover explained, had resulted in historical records. She described the beginnings of Greek poetical times, as far back at 1000 B. C., when huge crowds of as many of 20,000 persons gathered to listen to readings by learned people, with concerts and great plays resulting from the gatherings.

Mrs. Hoover told interesting sidelights on the lives of Homer, Virgil and Horace, the Roman writers, as well as Chaucer and Spencer whose writings, she stated, were duplications of the works of the early poets.

She described the poetical works of Isaac Watts as being the forerunner of our religious hymns. In closing, Mrs. Hoover described the poems of Pope as being "the most sensible writings of olden day poetry".

The subject of new poetry was discussed in an interesting manner by Mrs. John E. Angle, who interspersed her talk with recitations of poems written by a personal friend, Mrs. Hill, as well as some of Anne Campbell's works. Mrs. Campbell, incidentally, is a regular contributor to the poetry corner of the News-Journal editorial page.

The next meeting of the Sorosis club will be Jan. 18, with Mrs. S. D. Hoover serving as hostess for a meeting in the Women's club at 7:30 p. m.

Miss Georgiana Chidsey was in charge of devotions, During the business meeting Mrs. Ina Hall was named president; Mrs. Lillian Parker, vice president; Mrs. Harvey W. Burghard, secretary; and Mrs. Bertha Motson, treasurer.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served with Miss Laura Konrad, Miss Jennie Konrad, Miss Roma Prosser, Mrs. Ray Harbaugh and Mrs. Byrd Pearce as hostesses.

The next meeting will be a covered dish dinner in charge of the officers on Feb. 1 at the Parish House at 6 p. m.

Magazine Names 88-Year-Old As the 'Young Woman of Year'

AN 88-YEAR-OLD grandmother today finds herself a Young Woman of the Year.

She is Grandma Moses; full name, Mrs. Anna Mary Robertson Moses of Eagle Bridge, N. Y. She was named by Mademoiselle magazine Friday as one of its ten 1948 Merit Award winners.

Presented annually to ten young women for outstanding achievements in their fields, the 1948 awards were announced in a ceremony at Hampshire House. Winners received sterling-silver medallions engraved with the words, "MADEMOISELLE Merit Award, for Signal Achievement."

Grandma Moses was cited "for her flourishing young career and the youth of her spirit."

The 88-year-old grandmother switched from embroidery to painting at the age of 76 "because moths don't get at oils." Her "American primitives" have won the widespread acclaim of art critics, museums and the buying public.

Reflecting the importance of New York City for young women in all fields, five of this year's winners work in the world's largest metropolis. They include a lawyer, dancer, interior architect, educator and fashion designer.

Also good to the working girl, according to their representation here, are San Francisco, Philadelphia and Carrollton, Georgia. These cities contributed, in the same order, a craftswoman, Quaker social worker and golf champion. Great Britain is represented by one winner, an economist.

Here are the young women of the year, in addition to "Grandma Moses".

PHOEBE M. BAILEY of Philadelphia, Quaker social worker, responsible for all Quaker work in mental hospitals as director of the American Friends Service Committee's Institutional Service Units;

VALERIE BETTIS of New York City, modern dancer, choreographer, teacher, concert star at present appearing off the concert stage for the first time in Inside U.S.A.

FLORENCE KELLEY of New York City, lawyer, first woman attorney-in-charge of the Criminal Courts Branch of New York City's Legal Aid society, ex-assistant district attorney and only woman to address the second conference of the International Bar association on legal aid last summer;

DOROTHY NOYES of New York City, interior architect and designer who opened New Design, a shop to stimulate and display the work of contemporary designers;

LOUISE SUGGS of Carrollton, Georgia, golfer, holder of more golfing championships than any other woman, among them the North and South Women's championships (for the third time, the British Ladies championship, and the U.S. Golf Association Amateur title—all won during the past two years;

DORIS VARNUM of New York City, fashion designer, for her young, graceful and easy-to-wear junior fashions;

BARBARA WARD of Great Britain, economist, author of The West at Bay, who at 26 became Assistant Editor in charge of foreign affairs for the British magazine, The Economist;

HORTENSE WILLIAMS of New York City, educator, former assistant to the dean at Fisk College, former advisor to women at Delaware State College who is bringing a new approach to social work as Progress Assistant in Group Work at the Brooklyn Urban League;

JADE SNOW WONG of San Francisco, pottery craftswoman, who as Fifth Oldest Daughter (she is 26) has followed the traditions of her tightly knit Chinese home while running a successful pottery business, whose ceramics have won museum exhibition and whose autobiography, the first ever written by a Chinese-American woman, will soon be published by Harper.

In making the awards, it was pointed out that this year's winners have been tearing down barriers and setting precedents in many fields previously regarded as a "man's world".

Being a Perfect Hostess Is A Trick Any Woman Can Learn

BY ELEANOR ROSS

PARTY time is in full swing again. For some women, many of them with a modest household and very little or no outside help, a party is a joy, not only for the guests but for the hostess as well. But there are some women, with a beautiful home, with a maid, and no budget problems who get the jitters just at the thought of giving a party.

Hostesses who win admiration and praise from their guests are the ones whose social activities are smooth and apparently effortless. Whether giving a dinner for twelve, a big afternoon tea, a buffet supper or simply entertaining a couple at bridge, some women have the faculty for easy, gracious hospitality, while others wind up with migraine if they have to entertain a relative or friend at just an average meal. Not that such women aren't generous or the soul of hospitality. It is simply that they don't go at entertaining in a well-prepared, scientific method.

The successful hostess never entertains beyond the limits of her household. Nor does she splurge so wildly that it is bread and beans for her family the rest of the week. She knows what she is going to serve, what china, tableware and linens are to be used, and she prepares as far ahead as possible. Not for her a frantic last-minute chore to match up some china from open stock, which she finds no more available. Her china and silver ware are in order and sparkling clean ahead of time.

If overnight guests are expected, our good hostess makes sure beforehand that the guest room is in apple-pie order and ready for occupancy. She sees to it that there is proper bed-linen, that there is an ample supply of extra towels, and that there are spare blankets at hand, if needed. No quick trips for extra items just before guests arrive, for this type of hostess. And no need for a hurry-up wash to have things ready. If she is equipped to put up a friend, she sees to it that the necessary linen, blankets and such are always ready.

Mr., Mrs. Alvin Gerich Return From Trip In Middle West

MR. AND MRS. ALVIN GERICH have returned from a motor trip through the middle west following their wedding on New Year's eve in South Main Evangelical church.

The ceremony, at which the custom of open church was observed, was performed by Rev. G. Simpson, pastor of the Bethel Evangelical church, of which the bride is a member.

The double-ring service for Mr. Gerich and the former Hazel Lucille Hamilton, was read before the altar which was decorated with two large beauty baskets of gladioli, carnations and chrysanthemums in varied shades of pink, yellow and white. Flanking the altar were palms and lighted tapers in two seven-branch candelabra.

The new Mrs. Gerich, escorted to the altar by her father, Lloyd J. Hamilton, wore a formal wedding gown of white candlelight satin with a beaded yoke which extended to a broad shoulder line. The gown was made with a low neckline and the tight bodice was attached to a full circular skirt which extended into a wide train. The back of the gown was closed with tiny buttons, and the tight sleeves ended in points over the hands.

She wore a beaded tiara to which was attached a fingertip veil of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with roses.

Preceding her down the aisle were her attendants, Mrs. V. R. Haycook, wearing a floor-length slipper satin gown of flame color. With the gown she wore elbow-length gloves of the same material and carried a bouquet of white carnations with flame-red carnations.

The bridesmaid, Miss Laura Hamilton, sister of the bride, wore a gown styled like Mrs. Haycook's in aqua satin and carried a bouquet of aqua and white carnations.

The two flower girls, Linda Hamilton, niece of the bride, and Miss Patty Hock, niece of the bridegroom, each wore flame-colored dresses made floor-length.

Serving as best man was D. R. Haycook, while ushers were Lloyd Hamilton, brother of the bride, and Robert Hock, the bridegroom's brother-in-law.

Mrs. Hamilton, the bride's mother, wore a black faille two-piece dress with black accessories and a shoulder corsage of white carnations. Mr. Gerich's mother was attired in a brown wool suit with dark brown accessories.

A reception for 125 guests followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, 125 Washington avenue, where refreshments were were served from a table centered with a four-tiered wedding cake and bouquets of white carnations.

For traveling Mrs. Gerich wore a black wool suit with black accessories and the corsage from her wedding bouquet.

Mrs. Gerich is a graduate of Mansfield high school and is employed at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company. Mr. Gerich, a graduate of Lexington high school, served three years with the army. He, too, is employed at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company. They are residing temporarily with the bride's parents at 125 Washington avenue.

A YEAR TO REMEMBER
(Farewell to 48)
What a year!

It was the year of the schmoo and television, and be-bop Of Harry S Truman of course and "Nature Boy," and the airlift, and buttons and bows It was a rough year for Hollywood Wall Street, and apartment-hunters, but great for the farmers and Jack Benny It saw a coal miner's daughter married to a Rockefeller and the end of the five-cent subway fare It was a surprising year, politically an uneasy year, internationally.

Remember?

Babe Ruth died and Carole Landis killed herself in her beautiful California home and Count Folke Bernadotte was assassinated on a mission of peace The New Look became definitely Old Hat . . . "Dunocher" formerly a term accompanied by hat-lifting, became a cuss word in Brooklyn as The Lip deserted Our Bums to the Giants . . . James and Pamela Mason had a daughter whom they did not, to everyone's surprise name Kitty . . . The Metropolitan Opera opened, despite its own gloomy predictions that it wouldn't and Betty Henderson made the front pages even without showing her legs . . . Shirley Temple's beautiful baby made the nation coo with admiration and Princess Elizabeth and her Phillip became the parents of a baby boy, disproving completely the adage that a son never sets on the British Empire

The Navy's football team, previously submerged by every other college eleven except Vassar's, came back gloriously by holding Army to a tie . . . Jackie Coogan lost his toupee, Loretta Young lost her jewelry and Bobby Breen got lost but Tommy Manville held on to the same wife all year . . . A humble vegetable the pumpkin, garnered the most publicity it's had since Ichabod Crane was frightened by one—and it seemed that for some time to come the pumpkin would be associated as much with microfilm as with Hallowe'en . . . Joe Louis faced Jersey Joe Walcott a couple of times and emerged The Winnuh and Still Champeen . . . Night clubs died like butterflies in a frost. . . . Errol Flynn illustrated fancy dropkick technique upon the person of one of New York's Finest—and after the football season was over, too!

Gallup, Roper and all took polls to find out what was wrong with their system of taking polls . . . Rita Hayworth and the Aly Khan persisted in acting like Mr and Miss Hush whenever a newshawk asked about their romance . . . Judging from the headlines, more tea parties were being held in Hollywood than had ever been staged in Boston . . . Film stars deserted the land of the cameras to tread the boards in ever increasing numbers and Broadway was richer by the presence of Henry Fonda Jimmy Stewart, Madeline Carroll Rex Harrison, Joe E Brown and Charles Boyer . . . Peggy Lee made 'Manana' pay off today . . . Arline Judge Lana Turner and Bob Topping provided the gayest triangle for the tabloids with Arline shedding and Lana wedding Topping Madame Chiang Kai-shek journeyed all the way from China for a cup of tea with the President

The Olympic Games were revived, and the winner seems to have been Barbara Ann Scott, a pretty blonde confection who snagged all kinds of contracts for herself and skates . . . Kathleen Winsor threw away her clarinet, and Artie Shaw wrote the nastiest of reviews of "Forever Amber". . . . Howard Hughes' fighting mad speech to a Congressional committee made the most interesting newsreel of the year. . . . Garry Davis, a little known Broadway chorus boy, became internationally famous by giving up his United States citizenship and heckling the United Nations as a "citoyen du monde" . . . Picasso got tired of canvas and started making coffee pots and writing plays . . . General Eisenhower became a university president, and Harold Stassen, after a few passes at the Republican nomination went back to college, to Mary Margaret McBride found herself in the funniest (to everybody else) predicament of the year when she got caught in a corset zipper at the Waldorf

It was a year of no Spring and an odd Autumn . . . of Beatrice Lillie and Tallulah Bankhead and Ethel Merman on Broadway, of Kay Summersby and Kay Thompson in the cocktail chatter of the metropolis, of Thomas E Dewey and Madame Kasenkina and Truman Capote Of Idlewild Airport and the Palace of Chaillot, of Moscow and Prague and London and the Hague, of Palestine and Egypt and Washington, D C It was not the worst year we have had in this decade but it was bad for many, and it could have been better for all

We could do with a sweeter 1949 Let's hope!

Cornell's Formula For Keeping Young

By BERNARD GAVZER
(AP Newsfeatures.)

CHICAGO — Lady would you like to look ten years younger? Want to know how?

Take this tip from Katherine Cornell, who just passed 50 but looks 40 and sometimes younger Don't worry, fall in love do something that is important to you

Worry is the number one wrinkle maker, Miss Cornell said in an interview But wrinkles don't matter too much, either 'They add a mature charm in a happy face giving it character" she says

In case you think the actress hasn't anything to worry about how would you feel at the prospect of seeing $50,000 go out the window for good.

That's the share of investment Miss Cornell and her director husband, Guthrie McClintic stand to lose on their production of Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra' in which Miss Cornell starred here

Her happy marriage the theatrical star says, accounts for much of the youthfulness attributed to her She and McClintic just celebrated their 26th anniversary—'more than a quarter of a century of love" as she puts it

The stage, naturally, has a corner on her time. The way she feels about it, you can lose years as long as you have something—whether its needlework, acting or shooting pool—that is important to you. For Miss Cornell, the theater fills this need.

She and her husband plan to return from here to their home at Martha's Vineyard Mass There she plans looking over a forthcoming script of 'For One Sweet Grape" This is being adapted especially for production by Miss Cornell from the historical novel by Kate O'Brien, the Irish author

Whatever her next production it's a good guess that during the intermission, you'll hear the ladies speculating

'My she looks like she's 35 or 40 You'd never think she was 60"

"No dear she's only 50"

'Well, she still looks 40 How does she do it?

Koch Finds Dealers Give Full Measure

Sealer Puts OK On Measuring Devices

Richland county merchants are giving full measure of coal, milk and other commodities, the deputy sealer of weights and measures found in his inspections in 1948.

Deputy Sealer Harry K. Koch, who has filed his annual report with the county auditor, said there were no prosecutions, reprimands, or fines during the year.

Koch ordered a number of adjustments, particularly of gasoline pumps, but his report indicated the measuring devices were inaccurate because of mechanical defects and not because the owners altered them.

His report showed there were 850 scales under 400 pounds inspected and all 850 were approved and sealed. Of these, 160 were adjusted and 56 ordered repaired.

Ninety coal scales (over 400 pounds) were inspected and sealed, but of these, 40 were adjusted and repairs were ordered for four. There were 520 gasoline pumps inspected and sealed and 80 of them were ordered repaired. Fifty liquid measure devices were inspected and sealed.

Of 50 baskets and other devices inspected, 10 were approved and 40 rejected. Forty milk bottles were inspected and all approved as large enough to contain the amount specified. Ninety filling station oil bottles were inspected and all were approved. Of various other containers, 300 were inspected and 240 approved.

There were 540 packages reweighed or re-measured in stores on spot checks, of which 440 were found correct, while 100 were rejected. There were 10 coal loads re-weighed or checked and all were found correct.

Ex-Reservists Lose Status

A number of former reserve officers of the Mansfield area gave up their commissions when they joined the National Guard, and when some of these units disbanded under recent reorganization of the armed forces they lost all their military status.

Reserve commissions can be reinstated through direct correspondence with the Adjutant General, department of the army, in Washington, D. C.

The applicant must state he vacated his reserve commission to get in the National Guard, that the unit in which he served dissolved, and that he wishes to be recommissioned in the grade held at the time he vacated his reserve commission.

Copies of letters of resignation and discharges should be attached and the request mailed to Capt. R. M. Flynn, ORC instructor, Hangar 7, Municipal Airport, Mansfield.

28 Student Nurses to Get Caps At Ceremonies Sunday

Twenty-eight student nurses at General hospital will be "capped" at special services Sunday night at the First Presbyterian church.

The address for the service will be given by Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. Matthew G. Madden, who will give the invocation and the benediction.

Music for the service will be presented by Miss Mabel Zehner, church organist, and a student chorus, who will sing "Follow the Gleam."

Miss Carrie Beal, director of nurses, will give the charge to the class and Miss Kathryn Karbula, will accept them in the name of the 28 students. Miss Rachel Osbun, president of the student council at the hospital, will welcome the class of 1951.

Lighting of the traditional candles in the hand of each student nurse will be made by the "big sisters" among the nursing staff. The services will start a 8 p. m.

Members of the class include: Charlette Allison, Muriel Dalrymple, Margarett Dillon, Ellen Eagle, Sarah Jane Evans, Katherine Graham, Norma Higley, Alice Johnson, Kathryn Karbula, Ruth Kiplinger, Marjorie Lewis, Barbara Mathais, Doris Melick, Patricia Mertler, Mary Neal, Margaret Nell, Lillie Pemberton, Leonora Poister, Martha Schooley, Wanda Schumaker, Lorna Mae Speicher, Dorothy Spellman, Pauline Thudium Marilyn Vandlik, Frances Wallace, Ruth Wilting and Margie Worner.

TOLEDO—(INS)—Toledo city council has scheduled another meeting next Tuesday in an effort to select a successor to former councilman Thomas H. Burke, recently elected United States Representative from the Ninth district.

Road Work Progresses

The unusually mild weather during most of December permitted the county engineering department to accomplish a great deal of road work, County Engineer Walter E. Rusk said.

Usually, the work would be delayed until spring. Among the accomplishments were the rebuilding of berms on the Taylortown, Millsboro, Meyers and Linn roads.

A timber bridge in Cass township is being rebuilt in cooperation with the township trustees.

Work has started on replacing of steel stringers on the Butler-Newville road bridge over Switzer creek in Worthington township.

Gravel and limestone were put on the Amoy-West road in order to strengthen the base, Rusk said.

3 Draw Fines In Assault Cases

Three persons were fined $10 and costs in municipal court yesterday on assault and battery charges.

They were Theresa and Josephine Carmel, of 365 and 251 Grace streets, respectively, and Margery Fitzpatrick, of Galion. The affidavits against all three were signed by Mary Farina.
